The Impact of Technology on Adolescents & Implications for Substance Use and Abuse

These days, every teen has a cell phone, game system, a laptop and a Facebook page. How is this affecting your teen?

This evening's presentation will look at the impact on adolescents of social networking Web sites and enhanced video game technologies. We will touch on the potential dangers involved with social networking and implications of social isolation and substance use/abuse.

Bill DeJoy, LCSW-R, is a graduate of Ithaca College and received a Masters Degree in Social Work from Tulane University. Bill has worked with adolescents and their families for 15 years as a clinical social worker, a private practitioner and administrator in outpatient, inpatient psychiatric and inpatient substance abuse treatment. Currently Bill is the Adolescent Program Director, Director of Professional Development and the Interim Assistant Clinical Director at Conifer Park Rehabilitation Center in Glenville, NY.
